ANOTHER HOLD UP.

The Modern Dick Turpin Again At His Work.

The Potter Valley Stage Robbed--The Lone Highwayman Does the Work--Gets Small Sum.

Late yesterday afternoon a telephone message was received from Potter valley stating that the up stage from this place had been held up and robbed by the lone highwayman, and that only a small amount of money was realized by the daring robber.

The Potter Valley stage left Ukiah on schedule time yesterday, carrying four passengers, two women and two men and was driven by Raymond Hill. When it had reached a point on the grade about one mile beyond Fort Brown a masked robber directed the obliging driver to stop his team and for the accomodating passengers to get out and deliver their spare change to him.

The passengers had evidently been prepared for just such an occurance, as all the money the road agent could collect was $2.10, that being the amount that the two male passengers contributed to the funds. The female passengers were not molested. The driver had profited by his former experience of two weeks ago and was most obliging to the demands of the gentleman behind the gun.

After the robber had received the small donation of coin he ordered Hill th proceed on his way, and not to be inquisitive in regard to looking back. As soon as Potter Valley was reached Hill telephoned to Sheriff Smith and the sheriff accompanied by Deputy Ornbaun started immediately for the scene of the robbery. It was then about 5 p. m., the holdup occurring two hours previous. At a late hour last night the sheriff returned, and ttated that a clue had been found, and that several men were on the trial of the robber. Tom Chase, J. B. Ornbaun and John Milne had tracked him for about two miles, ann they had also discovered that the bandit led a saddle horse.

This is undoubtedly the same man who held up the Blue Lake and Potter Valley stages on the 16th of last month. The description of the man answers that of the former robber. His methods were the same and the and the scenes of the two hold-ups' were in the same locality. This enterprising robber is evidently well acquainted with the country, the stages and the drivers.

It is extremely difficult to fix suspesion on any one as the county is full of strangers. Dozens can be met every day on the county roads, and at this season of the year it is very hard to track any one thorough the hills.

At a late hour this morning and after the above was in type we learned that two suspects had been arrested in Potter Valley for the robbery, but no further particulars could be had.

Fire at the Geysers.

Last Tuesday afternoon the large hotel at the famous Geysers, near Cloverdale, was discovered on fire. At the time there was a large number of guests there, and a bucket brigade was organized, and their work was so efficient that it was only a short time before the flames were controlled and put out. The fire was caused by a defective electric wire. It was a narrow escape for that famous hostelry.

Game Protection Clubs.

H. T. Payne, agent of the fish commissioners, returned on Tuesday last from Fort Bragg and Mendocino City where he found the people greatly interested in the better protection of their game and fish. They expressed themselves, in both towns, as determined to put a stop to the killing of does and fawns and the illegal catching of fish. At Mendocino Mr. Payne organized a game protective club with thirty-one members, and a club at Fort Bragg with seventy-five members. The membership of these clubs is composed of the names of all the mill companys officials and all the business and professional men of both towns. With its three protective associations Mendocino county should, in the future, give its game and fish that careful protection which their value and importance to the whole people demand. Mr. Payne has given more attention to this county tnan to any other in the state, having organized three clubs here. He has been prompted to this extra work on account of the importance of the county as a breeding place for deer. It now behooves our people to see that this county be fully protected and all game laws lived up to.

John Rogers and wife, of Kansas, who have been visiting John Mewhinny, of Potter, returned to their eastern home Saturday. They were accompanied as far as San Francisco by Mr. Mewhinny, who is an uncle of Mrs. Rogers.

A BOILER EXPLOSION.

A Fatal Accident In Anderson Valley.

Two Men Lose Their Lives—Others Seriously Injured—Grain, Barns and Separator Burned Up.

A terrible accident occurred at the Smalley ranch near Philo, Friday last, which resulted in the instant death of William Rose and the fatal wounding of David L. Lear, Vernon Rawles was scalded and Richard Day badly hurt by a piece of flying metal. Wm. Nunn was also injured.

The cause of this terrible accident was the explosion of a boiler used for thrashing grain. It belonged to Sanders. The force of the explosion was terrific—the entire boiler and engine, with the exception of the fire box and wheels, was thrown clear over the separator some distance away.

The deceased were running a thrashing outfit for J. B. Sanders. Perry Irish was the engineer of the machine, and is said to be a competent mechanic. The stories told about the accident vary much in detail, but it is evident from a comparsion of the alleged facts of the sad afiair, that the boiler was not in the best of conditiod, and that the cause of the explosion was the result of low water in the boiler.

Wm. Rose, who was killed outright, was standing on the platform of the separator, about sixty feet away from the engine, and a piece of the boiler struck him on the head, killing him instantly. The others who were injured, were in the immediate vicinity of the boiler, and, strange to say, that several who were close at hand were not hurt at all. The fire under the boiler was scattered by the explosion and set fire to the standing grain and stubble fields, and some 2000 bushels of grain was destroyed with two large barns. The later were partially covered by insurance.

Mrs. Smalley experienced a very narrow escape for her life. During the progress of the fire she went to the barn to try to save some stock, and an exploding pistol that had been left in the barn, narrowly missed her head.

It was with great effort that the people of the vicinity succeeded in getting the flames under control. At last reports Mr. Lear was still alive, but in a very serious condition.

Since the above was in type we have leaaned that Mr. Lear has died from his injuries.

William Rose was well known in this vicinity, having had driven stage here for Johnson and on the Overland route.

Horse Drowned.

Walter and Harvey McClendon lost a fine horse by drowning, Saturday. They were driving the animal to a buggy, and while crossing the river at Cleveland's mill the animal fell and was drowned before anything could be done to save him.

THE PASSING SHOW

San Francisco As the Metropolis of the Pacific Coast.

Breezy Notes By The Press' Resident Correspondent. The Wonderful Development of Commerce From the Bay City--Personal Mention.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—The city has now resumed its normal appearance. The Epworth Leaguers have all departed; the visiting riflemen of the Scheutzenfest have gone; the decorations on the streets are fast being pulled down. All the festivities are over. The great Stanford organ is still in the Pavilion. That soon will be taken out, and a remembrance is all that we have of our thousands of visitors. This has been a summer of excitement—San Francisco has been a Mecca for hundreds of thousands of visitors. First came the visit of the president and the great excitement that his visit caused; the launching of the battleship Ohio; the home-coming of thousands of volunteer soldiers from the Philippines; then the Epworth League convention, the gathering of the riflemen of the earth; and now as a close to the summer we have the srrike of the labor organizations.

It, too, has been a most prosperous summer for this great seaport. The marts of this great city have been crowded. Ships from every country have discharged their cargoes on our docks, and have taxed their tonnage to their utmost to carry away the products of our soil and labor. All branches of business have been given a wonderful impetuous. Labor of all kinds has been in demand. The wonderful capabilities and resources of our state have been advertised far and near by the multitude of visitors. The advance agent of prosperity has found the land of plenty and here he has rested. We live in the favored land, and we hardly realize it; but it it so. Those who travel from afar all unite in so declaring.

The strike situation has become very critical. It seems as if the crisis has been reached. It appears that the striking teamsters realize that they are playing a losing game and they are becoming desperate. It is no uncommon sight to see a dray pass through the streets with a policeman riding beside the driver and two mounted policemen riding behind. The non-union drivers are never safe from rough treatment from the strikers. In a number of cases the non-union drivers have been seriously injured. The Draymen's Association are paying $6 per day for two horse drivers and $10 and $12 per day for four horse drivers and find plenty of men to fill the places. The strike has worked a great hardship with the fruit growers and commission merchants. Three large canneries here in the city have been obliged to close down because they could not get sufficient fruit delivered to them to keep running, thereby throwing out of employment about 3000 people. In many cases the strikers are suffering, those who have families especially. It is a sad state of affairs. Now there is plenty of work at good wages for all who want to work, and still about 15,000 of the laboring class are idle. From all indications it looks as though the final fight between the bosses and unionism is at hand. The employers have united and declared that they will not employ any union men. They have shown their hand. The unions have met the issue and the whole city front federation of about 18,000 men have struck, with the intention of tying up all the business of the city. In many quarters it is feared that the Federal government will have to take a hand in the matter. Your correspondent was talking to a striking teamster and the striker said he wanted to work, and needed work—that he received good wages and only worked eight hours a day, and that his employer treated him as a gentleman, but he was called out by the union and had to stop. Mayor Phelan is to be complimented on his efforts to adjust the trouble amicably; he is using every means to bring both sides to an agreement. It has become so dangerous now for non-union teamsters that the police escort them to and from their lodging places. The children in the streets cry "scab" at the men who have nerve enough to work. The police all wear their riot clubs and do not hesitate to use them on the heads of all who seek trouble.

We have been having very cool weather fer the past week. A cold wind has been coming in from the ocean, and every day about 5 p. m., a damp heavy fog drifts in, making it damp and uncomfortable. We hear about the hot weather you have been having up in Ukiah, and marvel greatly. It does not seem possible that at a distance of a little over a hundred miles that there could be such a difference in the climate. But it is refreshing to go out in the street wearing an overcoat, buttoned up closely, and inhale the fog ladened air, and we are sorry for you people up there who are trying so hard to keep cool.

The political pot has commenced to boil. The various factions have their scalp knives out and are ready to use them. It is really amusing to an onlooker to watch them. Thus far nothing has occurred to shape the destnies of the various party leaders, but some body is liable to fall with a "dull sickening thud" very soon.

We have had a very interesting visitor in our midst this week, it is Capt. Mallory, of the 2nd Infantry. He arrived on the transport Meade on the 28th inst. from Manila. He was in command of the guard that had the ex-rebel chieftain, Aguinaldo, in charge in Manila, and has much of interest to say in regard to the famous Filipino. He says Aguinaldo is, judging by his conversation and actions, a loyal citizen to the United States government, and is rapidly becoming Americanized. Aguinaldo is allowed the freedom of the city if accompanied bo an army officer, but thus far he has refused to accept the privilege. Capt. March, formerly of the Astor battery that made such a name for itself during the early days of the war, is also in the city.

Some 300 school teachers, engaged by the government to teach in the Philippine Islands, took passage on the transport Thomas last week. They came from all points of the country. They contracted to stay three years in the Islands at a good salary. Some 200 more are to sail this week. A large crowd of friends were at the dock to extend them a bon voyage and a good time in their field of labor. The government is wise in this course of action, as the teachers can do more to instill the glorious principals of free government into the minds of the people than thousands of armed troops can do.

O. J. Mosely has been employed by the San Francisco Transfer Company since his return from the Orient, he had charge of their branch office in Mechanics Pavilion during the session of the Epworth League.

Chas. M. Mannan left last Saturday for a trip to Ukiah.

We met James Haywood last Monday. He is looking for a business location.

Again we will have to close, Mr. Editor, and tell you goodby for a week. Our time is limited, and we know your space is, and that sometimes forbearance eeases to be a virtue, so we will stop. MILLER.

Deer Season Opens.

Yesterday was the first day of the open season for deer hunting. Many hunters from our county and from abroad were out in the hills awaiting the first day of August. The deer have been carefully protected this year, thanks to the energetic efforts of our game wardens, and now the true sportsmen are having grand sport. There is no county in the state where the deer multiply as fast as they do in Mendocino, the county is one vast deer park.

Many deer have been brought into town during the past twenty-four hours and the hunters declare that deer have never been so plentiful. Several large bucks have been shipped to San Francisco already.

Frank Hittell, Freeman Parker and Guy Shoemaker have gone for a three weeks hunting trip in Trinity county. Vinton English will accompany them from Covelo.

THE COAST STAGE ROBBERY.

The Work of a Novice at the Business.

Calls For Wells Fargo Box—Does Not Rob the Workingman—No Treasure on the Stage--Still at Large.

The Mendocino Beacon contains the following regarding the recent holdup near the Albion:

Driver Cropper, who had charge of the stage, states that he left Albion about the usual time with three passengers, all, or nearly all, of whom had got aboard at Albion. He had noticed two drummers in a rig ahead of him, and when the foot of the grade at Dark gulch was reached and a masked man jumped into the road ahead of the team and ordered a halt, he at once thought that the drummers were tryin to play a doubtful joke.

"Get out of the way, or I'll run over you," laughingly cried Cropper.

"Halt!" cried the highwayman, as he grabbed at the bridle with one hand and nervously swung a single-barreled shotgun with the other.

Cropper at length concluded that it was being carried a trifle too far for a joke, and he hastily pulled up.

"Throw out the box," was the next command, and the shotgun continued to sweep a circle.

The driver looked at the man a moment and then pityingly said, "Why you blamed fool, don't you know there hasn't been a box on this stage for four years?"

The look of disgust on the highwayman's face all but penetrated the bandana handkerchief which covered his face. But to make sure that he was not being deceived he carefully passed around the stage and minutely examined the wagon. Coming back to the front of the stage he scrutinized the faces of the passengers and asked:

"Are you gentlemen workingmen?"

They answered in the affirmative, and some held up their hands in further support of their statement.

"Well, I never rob a workingman; drive on." He waved them adieu, and Mr. Cropper lost little time in moving on.

The passengers had just been paid off at Albion, and they had had their checks cashed before boarding the stage, and the driver had about $100 on his person that belonged to himself and others, therefore the robber missed a neat haul by being so considdrate of the laboring man.

Mr. Cropper says the man was dressed in coarse clothes, and that his mask was a lady's veil underneath a bandana handkerchief. His hair seemed to be short and curly, reminding one of a mulatto.

About one-quarter of a mile north of the scene of the hold-up the stage passed a camping outfit. The driver stopped and informed the campers of the occurrence and they appeared surprised, but their manner in some way impressed Mr. Cropper that they knew more of the affair than they should. The campers passed through town later in the evening.

Sheriff Smith and Deputy Sheriff Ornbaun started for the coast as soon as they were appraised of the affair, arriving there early Wednesday morning. Apparently there is very little for the officers to work on. Some apprehension was felt for the safety of Tuesday evening's Ukiah stage, and Constable Dwinelle drove out and met it several miles from town and returned with it. But the highwayman evidently was too much disgusted with his afternoon's work to make any further attempts that day.

A young man named Boose was arrested by Deputy Ornbaun. After investigation, however, the officer found it impossible to secure identification of the prisoner, so he was discharged. At latest reports Ornbaun was on a hot trial.

Thatcher's Hotel in Hopland, has been crowded with large parties of summer tourists for the past month.

IN THE PHILIPPINES.

News comes from Manila of the first surrender of insurgents in the island of Samar, 500 men, with two field guns, 30 rifles and several bolos, giving themselves up to the authorities.

The first meeting of the legislative chamber was held on July 26. Commissioner Wright, speaking of the charter of Manila, said the same reasons that controlled in making Washington the federal city obtained in Manila, and Washington, he declared, was the best governed city in the world. Representatives of the Spanish chamber of commerce opposed the charter, asserting that it was inconsistent with the freest government on earth to deny the right of suffrage to the residents of the metropolis while granting it to those of other localities. The proposed system of government for Manila, they said, was far less liberal than that offered by the Spanish authorities, who proposed to make the representatives of the districts in Manila elective by the people.

Colonel Zurbano, with 29 officers, 518 men, 243 rifles and 100 bolos has surrendered to Lieutenant Hickman of the First Cavalry, in Tayabas province. These former insurgents have taken the oath of allegiance to the United States and their surrender clears that district of the revolutionary element.

A civilian named Pinnick has been sentenced to one year's imprisonment and to pay $1,000 for receiving supplies stolen from the commissary department at Manila.

SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.

A dispatch from Pretoria, dated July 26, says: "A detachment of Steinacker's Horse, occupying Bremersdorp, was forced to evacuate July 24th by a superior force of Boers. The detachment fought its way to Lembobo, a distance of 16 miles, losing about ten killed or wounded and a few missing.

From July 1 to July 22 the number of Boers captured, wounded or surrendering was 1,068. Caves that were occupied by the Boers have been discovered in the Lydenburg district. The caves were well furnished and stocked with provisions. A quantity of silks and satins was also found in them, and it is supposed that these were looted from stores. A military census will be taken on July 31. Colonel Garrett in a skirmish near Vereeniging captured 25 Boers and a number of cattle and wagons.

Jacob Greenawald of Philadelphia gave a dinner to a party of friends at a restaurant in New York, covers being laid for 12. A $20 gold piece was placed in each wine-glass, the gold to be retained as a souvenir of the dinner. Greenawald, who is a millionaire, before sailing for Europe took this means of providing a surprise for a few friends. The dinner, including the gold coins, cost $50 a plate.

Members of the Imperial Yeomanry in London astonished their friends by throwing their war medals upon the floor and stamping upon them. These medals were given by King Edward to the yeomanry the previous day. In explanation of their anger the yeomen alleged the government was in arrears with their pay and referred to the blunders of officials. One yeoman said: "Our names misspelled and our rank and command are wrong in six cases out of ten. We supposed the medals would be worth something to our friends and posterity, but mine is not worth anything but to chuck away." The example of this man was followed by others.

Emperor Francis Joseph has forwarded a generous gift to Senora Concha Mendez, the Mexican songstress, on the occasion of her 80th birthday. After Emperor Maximilian had been shot and Empress Carlotta had gone insane, the audience at the Mexican theater called upon Mendez to sing a song villifying them, but she cried out: "No, I shall not villify the dead and the unhappy," and a hush fell upon the house. Emperor Francis Joseph recalls the incident.

A sack of 1,000 silver dollars mysteriously disappeared from the Chicago National bank. It had been left outside of the bank by mistake when the bank closed for the night. This is the second strange disappearance of a package of money belonging to this bank within a year. Detectives are still looking for a package of $20,000 in bills shipped by the bank with the Adams Express company to the National State bank at Burlington, Ia., August 17th last. When the package was opened at Burlington it contained only clippings of paper.

Bert Ohmerty, a well-known young man, committed suicide by shooting himself near Congress, A. T. A few days previously Miss Ethel Kent was accidentally killed by Ohmerty's gun, which he had left standing against a rock near Kent camp. Miss Kent knocked the gun down and it exploded, inflicting a wound from which she died a few hours later. Ohmerty brooded over the accident until he decided to end his life.

While Judge Budd was hearing a case in court at Stockton, Cal., a sound like the hissing of a rattlesnake came from behind the railing, and the judge ordered the bailiff to investigate. Pablo Quinez, a Mexican, was found to be making the noise with his mouth; his eyes glinted like those of a snake, and he was in a comatose condition. Quinez continued to hiss for several minutes, but later came out of the fit and walked away. Some years ago Quinez was bitten by a rattlesnake and his arm had to be amputated to save his life. Occasionally he has these peculiar fits, hisses, sprawls on the ground and attempts, like a rattlesnake, to strike objects or persons.

Judge Hanford of Tacoma has announced his decision that an Indian citizen has a perfect right to buy whisky and to drink it if he so chooses, just the same as any other citizen of the United States. The ruling does not affect the law that prohibits the selling of liquor to an Indian who is not a citizen, but the court holds that an Indian who is a citizen cannot be deprived of any of the rights that are possessed by any other citizen under the constitution.

Lionel Comport, the young milkman mysteriously shot at Los Angeles recently, is now out of danger. Comport was shot through the abdomen and was thought to be fatally wounded. An operation was performed by Police Surgeon Pierce, which necessitated the removal of more than a foot of the lower intestine and the ends being joined with a "Murphy button." The operation is a most difficult one, and Dr. Pierce is receiving the congratulations of his colleagues on his success.

THE TROUBLE IN CHINA.

Prince Ching, Li Hung Chang and Kung Kang, the three members of the reform board who are in Peking, have received a communication from the court, in which, among other things, they are directed to follow the good things of the old country and adopt the good of other countries; to copy the westerners—"their hearts are all good, those of the Chinese are all bad;" and finally, says the communication, "Good government depends on men, not measures. Select good men and yourselves act with sincerity and zeal. Briefly, forget self for the public."

The so-called "allied villagers," according to native reports, include 25,000 well-armed troops in southwestern Chili, says the Peking correspondent of the London Standard. Most of them are old Boxers or disbanded soldiers. They have captured all the imperial supplies sent overland from Peking.

Information has been received at Peking stating that there is no indication of the Russians withdrawing from Manchuria. The Chinese authorities alone are incapable of suppressing disorder. The Russians are utilizing certain Chinese troops, but they prove incompetent.

Eleven governments have agreed that the indemnity to be paid by China shall be 450,000,000 taels, and that the security will be the salt tax, the native customs and an increase in maritime customs to an effective 5 per cent. The principal of a Chinese loan to pay the indemnity will be payable in 1940. The total payments of principal and interest will be 1,000,000,000 taels.

Very heavy rainstorms covered all of central and southern Arizona and extended down into Mexico. At Glendale the most severe windstorm ever known in that part of the territory caused some damage, taking roofs from buildings. The rains will do great good to the agricultural and stock regions and to forests in the mountains, where fires have been causing much damage.

A high Russian police official called upon George Kennan, the American author and lecturer, at his hotel in St. Petersburg, and informed him that he must leave the country by 10 o'clock the following evening. Mr. Kennan was not allowed to leave his room, but he was courteously treated. This action by the Russian authorities is taken under the law giving the minister of the interior authority to expel undesirable foreigners.

In expectation of doing its own packing, the Cured Fruit association has decided to build a large warehouse near the depot at Santa Clara, Cal. The contract with the packers' company expires this year, and with a warehouse of the size contracted for the association will be in a position to pack and ship its own fruit with the aid of the growers' unions, which are already the owners of several fine packing-houses.

J. N. Capell has a bears' foot preserved in alcohol on exhibition at his saloon. It is a monument to the prowess of T. R. Chase, the famous bear hunter, who was formerly known as plain Tom but now signs himself T. Roosevelt. A lumber wagon containing fourteen of the young gentlemen of the town visited the Lahm residence last Wednesday night and a real old fashioned charivari was indulged in. The occasion was the wedding of Miss Gussie Lahm, one of the popular belles of the valley, and Mr. Ernest Fowler. The bride and groom were very good natured and the discordant sounds had scarcely commenced when the doors were opened and the party invited in. Refreshments were served and several of the young gentlemen favored the assembly with vocal selections. The affair was all conducted in a very gentlemanly manner, and after drinking the health of the happy couple and extending congratulations the boys started home at midnight vowing that it was the most successful charivari ever conducted in this valley.

Set for the wrong time.

He works in a down town office for a gruff old chap who has no love for laggards. He is due at 8 sharp, but as he likes to be out o' nights he never wakes up a moment too soon. He has an alarm clock, which he sets at 7, and this gives him barely time to dress, breakfast and reach the office.

One day last week, the man having forgotten to wind his clock the night before, it didn't go off. So there were explanations to be made about 8:30 a. m. This was the excuse:

"Well, you see, Mr. Gruff, I know how punctual you like all of your men to be, so I have an alarm clock, which I set for 7 in the morning. But, by mistake, I set it for 7 in the evening last night, and of course it didn't go off at 7 in the morning today, as usual. And I overslept myself."

"Ah, you did? Well, I'll excuse you this time. But set it properly after this."

And now the chap is wondering whether or not "the old man" was really fooled or merely wanted to let him down easy. Perhaps he thinks the boss believes he has a 24 hour clock.—Kansas City Journal.

The FACE OF A MARQUISE

At the masquerade a marquise of the time of Louis XIV flitted by Julian Chestwick and disappeared in the throng. He haunted the rooms like an unquiet spirit all the evening, until people began to believe that the Hungarian prince was a ubiquity, but the face shone upon him no more.

"So you won't marry Miss Pearlfield?" asked his uncle, a choleric old gentleman who was particularly fond of two things in this world—port and his own way.

"No," said Julian recklessly.

"And what the deuce is the reason?"

"Because I love somebody else."

"Whom?"

Julian looked awkward. He could not very well say "a face," so he said nothing at all, and in consequence thereof his uncle went home in a passion and altered his will.

Miss Pearlfield married somebody else, and Julian Chestwick worshiped at the shrine of the oval face, contented with its remembered smiles as they haunted his dream.

"I shall see her some day," he told himself, "and until then I will wait."

When Field Pakenham invited him down to a Christmas party at Pakenham Court, Chestwick hesitated. In New York his chances of realizing the dream of his lifetime were as five to one compared to any other place, and yet he was too good a chess player not to comprehend that the tide of luck needs a change now and then.

Chestwick's eye roved from face to face as he took his seat at the long table in the antique old dining room at Pakenham Court. There were blonds and brunettes, and blue eyes and gray, scraggy throats and dimpled shoulders, but there was no look or feature in all the gay assemblage which might suggest the French marquise.

But Lucia Dallas took him in hand and made him talk whether he was willing or no.

"It's all nonsense about your being a Diogenes," said that young lady. "Where are your tub and your lantern?"

"They're coming down by the next train."

"Well, then, until they come I shall make the most of you. Do you dance?"

"No."

"Do you sing?"

"No."

"Do you flirt?"

"No."

"Are you fond of pictures?"

"Yes. Did you bring your album?"

"No; I was thinking of the old picture gallery up stairs. Only imagine it—the portraits of the Pakenham ancestry for 200 years back!"

The Pakenham picture gallery was well worth seeing. A long, lofty room, lighted by a dome of glass, it reminded one of some old baronial hall in England.

"I prefer the future to the past," said he briefly.

And then, turning, his eye fell upon a pictured face which thrilled him through and through, a dimpled, smiling face with black eyes which seemed to melt and glow, even against the opaqueness of the meaningless canvas, a mouth full of arch expression and a dress of the time of Louis Quatorze.

"Field," he said, turning to his host, with features as pale as if they had been carved in ivory, "who is that lady?"

"Who was she, you mean," laughed Pakenham. "Why, you know, she's been dead these 200 years."

Chestwick felt an odd, icy tremble through his veins. Was he then in love with a ghost?

"It is Marie de Roubise of Normandy, afterward married to Gerald Pakenham, who died two years after her marriage—my great-great-grandmother—and a very good looking woman too," added Field, rather irreverently.

Chestwick had taken his seat at dinner in a mechanical sort of way when a young lady glided into the seat opposite.

"Merciful fate!" he ejaculated, half starting from his place. "Marie de Roubise!"

"Hold your tongue," whispered Field, dragging him back into his chair. "It's only my cousin, Marquerita Leslie. Stop staring and let me introduce you like a Christian."

And as Pakenham spoke their names to each other Julian Chestwick found himself looking directly into the lively dark eyes of the radiant marquise of the days of Louis Quatorze.

"I never thought of it before," said Pakenham, "but she does look like the portrait of our French ancestors."

"I dressed like it for a masquerade ball in New York last winter," laughed Marquerita herself, "and you would have fancied I had just stepped out of the frame."

The riddle was solved at last. Chestwick's heart grew light as a feather within his breast, and life became a possibility of brightness once more.

When he went away from Pakenham Court, Marquerita Leslie had promised to become his wife.

"It's a very short acquaintance, though," observed Miss Leslie.

"No, it isn't. It's a very long one," said Julian earnestly. And then he told her how, when and where he had first fallen in love with her.

"Dear me! I didn't know there was so much constancy in man!" was her answer.

Wood In Germany.

The total annual production of timber and firewood of the German forests is estimated at 38,000,000 tons, and this is supplemented by an import of 4,000,000 tons. The material progress of the country would not be possible had it not the large home production to fall back upon.

General rains which have fallen over the greater part of western Missouri and Kansas have given that portion of the southwest temporary relief from the severe drought.

Lord Kitchener telegraphs July 25 that Colonel Barratt's column surprised a Boer convoy near Reitzburg and captured 25 prisoners and some wagons. The British casualties were two killed and six wounded. General French's column in Cape Colony is gradually pushing the Boers northward.

General Baden-Powell arrived at Southampton, England, from South Africa, and was formally welcomed by the mayor and civil authorities. When he arrived at Woking to visit Captain McLaren, who served with him in India and at Mafeking, there was a great demonstration with bands, bonfires and decorations. The members of the fire brigade detached the horses from the carriage and hauled the hero of Mafeking to Captain McLaren's residence.

San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21, at its last meeting, passed a series of resolutions condemning the "arrogant and vicious attitude" of the Employers' association in declaring itself inimical to all labor organizations, thereby seriously complicating the endeavors to settle the existing disputes. A protest is made against any recognition whatsoever by the mayor or municipal authorities of the Employers' association in pending or future labor difficulties.

Judge E. C. Hart of Sacramento sentenced Frank Enright and Ray Fahey to San Quentin for life for robbery. Ever since Judge Hart took office in 1898 he has been carrying out the idea he then expressed, to deal out severe punishment to criminals of the footpad class. The Sacramento police say that Judge Hart is worth a score of police in the town.

A Peking dispatch of July 25 says: No effective government exists throughout the territory covered by the foreign punitive expeditions. Bands of brigands, composed of deserters from the foreign armies, Boxers and former Chinese regulars terrorize the country The imperial troops returning to Peking plundered 16 towns south of Paoting-fu. After the troops departed the people took vengeance upon the officials, mobbing the mandarins and wrecking their houses.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

A statement prepared at the internal revenue bureau says that the collections on account of the war revenue act during the period from June 13, 1898, to June 30, 1901, were $318,790,501.

The navy department has bought the Spanish dry dock in Havana harbor, and it will be towed to Subig bay, island of Luzon. The distance the dry dock will be towed, going by way of Gibraltar, is 11,916 miles.

The postoffice department has called for bids for about 3,000,000,000 postal cards during the four years beginning December 1st next. During the last quarter of the fiscal year ended June 30, 1901, 203,432,450 cards were used by the department, an average of 67,810,850 a month. This number, however, is above the average for the quarter, the usual number required being about 60,000,000, necessitating the manufacture and printing of about 2,000,000 cards daily, month in and month out, or 720,000,000 a year.

The composition of the court of inquiry asked for by Rear-Admiral Schley is as follows: Admiral George Dewey, commander of the navy, president; Rear-Admiral Lewis A. Kimberly, retired; Rear-Admiral Andrew K. Benham, retired. Captain Samuel C. Lemly, United States navy, will be judge-advocate. The court is ordered to convene at Washington on Thursday, Sept. 12.

STRIKES IN SAN FRANCISCO.

The City Front Federation Orders Out 16,000 Men.

In fulfillment of its threat to tie up the business of San Francisco, so far as shipping is concerned, the City Front Federation of Labor, at a meeting Monday, July 29, called out its full membership, estimated at 16,000 men, and thereby stopped work on all the docks of San Francisco, Oakland and Port Costa. The resolution, which received the unanimous support of the delegates to the federation, is as follows:

"The full membership of the City Front Federation refuses to work at the docks of San Francisco, Oakland, Port Costa and Mission Rock. The steamers Bonita and Walla Walla, with mail and passengers now in the stream, will be allowed to go to sea."

The strike of the Brotherhood of Teamsters opened with a total of 6,400 men out, but with the members of the federation out, the total was raised to 20,000 strikers, and a conservative estimate places the number who are forced to suspend labor on account of the strike, but who are not striking, at 20,000 more, making a total of 40,000 idle people as a result of the labor troubles.

The Employers' association is opposed to sympathetic strikes, and demands that every employer be permitted "to employ his help without discrimination as to creed, race or membership in any external organization, and that every employee shall have the right to labor without interference in any situation he chooses to accept."

FOREIGN ITEMS.

A severe thunderstorm raged in London, turning the streets into rivers The underground railway was flooded and trains were stopped. The storm flooded Mrs. Langtry's new theater, the Imperial. Several public buildings were damaged.

An Englishman and two ladies, together with their guide, plunged over a precipice while ascending the Matterhorn, in Switzerland. One lady escaped without serious injury. A dispatch from Aosta, Italy, says that three Englishmen and three guides, while climbing Mount Cervino, fell down a chasm and all were killed.

Roses and Turks.

"It would give a genuine and religious Turk a fit if he saw how little appreciation Americans show for the rose and what little reverence they have for it," spoke a florist as he wrapped the foil about the stems of a boutonniere.

"The rose is beyond question the prettiest flower that blooms, and it was so considered by the Turks many years before the conquest of Granada. There is a religious legend generally believed in throughout Turkey that the red rose sprang from a drop of the great prophet Mohammed's blood. Everything beautiful in nature is ascribed to him. The Turks, therefore, have great reverence for the flower and allow it to bloom and die untouched, except on state occasions and for the purpose of making rosewater.

"After the conquest by the Turks they would not worship in any church until the walls were cleansed and washed with rosewater and thus purified by the blood of the prophet. It is used on the body for the same purpose. A Turk whose conscience is stung by some act or deed he has committed will caress and pay reverence to the rose to appease the wrath of the prophet and Allah.

"With these ideas inculcated in him from youth it would shock him severely to see the pretty flower strewn in the path of a bridal couple, thrown on the public stage or banked up in hundreds at a swell reception or party to be crushed and spoiled in an evening." —Exchange.

Sensible Conclusion.

Two doctors once had a disagreement—as the best of doctors sometimes will have—and lost their tempers.

"I hesitate to say just what I think of you," angrily exclaimed one of the two, "for you have not many years to live! Consumption has marked you for a victim."

"Oh, it has, has it? How do you know?"

"By the 'clubbing' of your fingers," referring to the wasting away of the fingers near where they join the hands. "Do I need to call your attention to that?"

"Perhaps not," retorted the other. "But do you know you bear the unmistakable indication of an early death yourself?"

"Where, sir?"

"In those hollows at the back of your neck near the head, where you can't see them. They denote a fatal lack of vitality."

"In that case," rejoined the one who had spoken first, extending his hand, "we are foolish to quarrel. Let us prescribe for each other."

They are still alive and apparently in excellent health.—Youth's Companion.

Awnings In Big Lots.

"To supply some of the big modern buildings with awnings," said an awning maker, "costs as much as it would to build a moderate sized house.

"Not all of the great buildings require awnings. Some of the very largest have their principal exposure in such a direction that they are not needed, the sun not shining on these windows during the hours the offices are occupied. And then, of course, there are great buildings that do not require awnings on some sides, but need them on others or in courts, and so on.

"Here, for instance, is a building with about 1,000 windows, of which 600 or thereabout are supplied with awnings.

"Another building I have in mind has about 1,600 windows. I don't know how many awnings they have there, but if it is supplied in the same proportion as the other that would give it about 1,000 awnings. I dare say that, in fact, you would find in the city single buildings with more than a thousand awnings.

"You see, just the awnings for some of these great modern buildings amount to quite an item."—New York Sun.

Not Quite What She Meant.

A very stout lady while out walking in a certain part of Edinburgh came to a gateway which appeared to be the entrance to a private road. Not being certain, however, she asked one of two messenger boys who were standing at the entrance whether she could get through the gateway or not.

The boy looked her up and down and across. Then, winking to his friend he replied:

"I dinna ken, missus, but think ye micht try, as I saw a horse and cart gang through a wee while since."—London Tit-Bits.

He Knew When He Was Well Off.

Teddie slept in a big bed with his mother, and one winter's night, being right in the middle of it when his mother's bedtime came, she suggested to him to move on his side. He blinked up at her rebelliously: "No, I t'ink I won't move. It's cold everywhere I ain't."—Harper's Bazar.
